

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

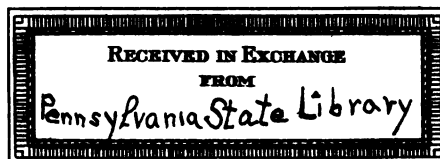

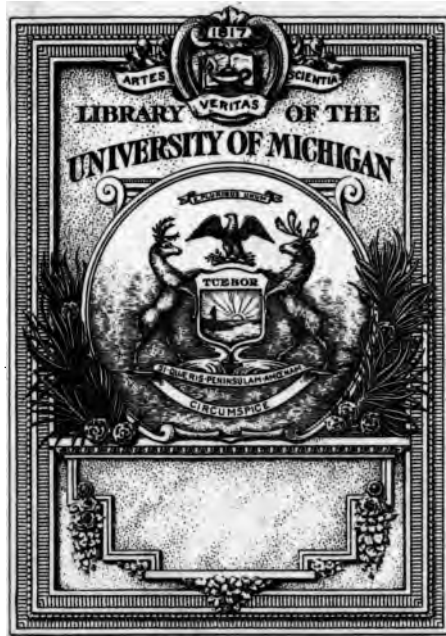

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

THE GOVERNMENT OF THE STATE LIBRARY.

REGULATIONS FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF THE STATE LIBRARY ADOPTED BY THE LEGISLATURE.

1. The Board of Trustees of the State Library shall have supervision thereof and power to make rules and regulations for the same, and the Governor, the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and the Attorney General shall, ex-officio, be said trustees. . . . They shall meet annually upon the second Monday of December, and at such other times as they may fix for that purpose, and the State Librarian shall act as secretary to the same.

2. The Library rooms shall be open to the public every secular day, except public holidays, between the hours of 9 A. M. and 3 P. M., except during the sessions of the Legislature, and of the Supreme Court sitting at Harrisburg, when the Library shall be open as aforesaid between the hours of 9 A. M. and 9 P. M., provided that on Saturdays the Library shall be closed at 12 o'clock noon.

3. The Governor, members of the General Assembly, Justices of the Supreme Court, heads of departments, and officers of the Commonwealth at the seat of government, and such other persons as may be designated by the rules adopted by the Board of Trustees, shall be entitled, under such regulations as the Board of Trustees shall prescribe, to take books from the Library.

RULES FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF THE STATE LIBRARY, ADOPTED BY THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES, JANUARY 22, 1890.

RULE 1.

The State Library is one of reference, and not a circulating library. All persons are permitted to visit the Library and examine and read the books and reviews; but the Librarians shall exercise a proper discrimination as to the delivery of such books as they may judge liable to injury.

RULE 2.

During the time the Library is open, the Librarian or his assistants shall be in attendance. They shall preserve order, and exclude, if necessary, any disorderly person. They shall prevent smoking, loud talking or reading, and all noise inappropriate to the quietness of a place of study.

RULE 3.

It shall be the duty of the Librarian to register in a book provided for that purpose the names of all persons, entitled under the law and these rules, to take books from the Library, the title of the book and the time it is taken out; and he shall give notice to all persons failing to return the same at the time specified in Rule 6.

RULE 4.

Persons entitled under the law to receive books from the Library, cannot transfer that right or privilege to others, nor shall books taken from the Library be loaned to others.

RULE 5.

No book shall be taken from the Library until its title is written and the receipt properly signed by the person receiving the same. Neither the Librarian nor his assistants can sign such receipt nor waive the giving of the same.

RULE 6.

No person shall have from the Library at any one time more than two books (or two volumes), and no book shall be retained from the Library for a longer period than two weeks; but this rule shall not apply to heads of departments desiring works for their personal consultation and use.

RULE 7.

The following works of reference shall not be removed from the Library, except in cases where the head of a department requires the same for consultation, viz: directories, encyclopedias, newspapers, magazines, maps, pamphlet volumes, illustrated works of art, rare or costly books, books of limited edition, books or other documents presented to the Library for permanent preservation, reports of the supreme or other courts of last resort of the different States and Territories (except as hereinafter mentioned), manuscripts, engravings and works of an encyclopedic character.

RULE 8.

During the sessions of the Legislature, or the sitting of the Supreme Court in Harrisburg, any law book or work of reference may be taken to any room in the Capitol by any member thereof, and lawyers in attendance on the Supreme Court may be permitted to take such law books as they may wish to the Supreme Court room, to be returned within two days, and the persons so receiving the same shall be personally responsible for their safe return.

RULE 9.

Members of the Legislature having in their possession any book, map or other publication belonging to the State Library shall return the same at least five days previous to the final adjournment; and it shall be the duty of the State Librarian to report to the presiding officers of the Senate and House of Representatives, respectively, two days before such final adjournment, the names of the members of each House, respectively, who have failed or neglected to return the same.

RULE 10.

No cases shall be left open by the Librarian or his assistants, and no one else shall be permitted to take from or replace upon the shelves, any book, map, or other publication.

RULE 11.

Books must be handled with care. Leaves of books must not be turned down nor any marks whatsoever made on the margin.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

STATE LIBRARIAN.

To His Excellency JAMES ADDAMS BEAVER,

Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania :

SIR: In accordance with the requirements of the law governing the State Library, I have the honor to present my report for the year ending November 30, 1890.

The number of volumes added to the State Library during the past twelve months, other than our own State publications, has been as follows:

By purchase—Miscellaneous books,	2,023 volumes.
Law books,	371
Magazines and reviews,	114
Newspapers,	450
English Parliament reports,	46
By exchange—With the United States,	368
With the States and Territories,	375
With Foreign Countries,	78
By donation, exchange with institutions of learning, etc.,	269

Making a total increase to the Library from all sources of 4,094 volumes.

In a former report, basing my calculations upon estimates made by my predecessors, I stated that the number of volumes then in the Library was about 70,000. This, I find upon a very careful computation, is ten thousand less than the actual number. It may be fairly stated, that the total number of volumes, therefore, at present is 84,094. To accommodate the books added, as well as for proper arrangement, temporary book room has been placed on the galleries of a kind not to interfere with the light, sufficient to shelves 5,000 volumes.

It will be seen that at the present rate of increase, and this should not be checked, provision must be made, and that speedily, to accommodate the annual accumulation. This increase is by no means as large as it should be, and there are many subjects which have but a meagre representation. It is desired that this at least may become a great consulting library and every assistance ought to be given to it by the Legislature. There are at least four states in the Union, which, for value, reference and number lead Pennsylvania, while several others are rapidly forging to the front. This is a book-loving era, and every man and woman of literary culture, must look to the large libraries of the country for works in their particular line of thought and study. Students come to the Library from all parts of the State, feeling assured that such books of reference they are desirous of consulting will be contained therein. At times they are partially disappointed, and must pass on to some of the munificently endowed libraries in the metropolitan cities.

Over-crowded, which our Library is, danger of destruction by fire, and the want of proper light due to the former, are the principal reasons urgently requiring prompt measures looking to the erection of a new Library building, and it is to be devoutly wished that the Legislature of 1891 will see the absolute necessity there is for this action. The present Library is needed for committee rooms and for other purposes. The enlargement of clerical labor, the necessity for increase of bureaus in the State government, demand that some provision be made for them, and for the work of the various commissions to whom subjects of legislation are committed.

With a special Library building, to be fire-proof and to be heated externally, with all electric wires carefully covered and placed within metallic tubes—the valuable books of the State, the archives of the Commonwealth, and the flags of the war for the suppression of the rebellion—would be safely housed. These are subjects to be gravely considered, and I hope that the trustees of the Library will so represent the matter to the Legislature that that body will have little hesitancy in seconding the wise recommendations in this respect.

Since my last report, three shipments of State publications have been made, and through the courtesy of the Governor of the Commonwealth and the Commissioners of the Centennial of the Federal Constitution—copies of the valuable report edited by Hampton L. Carson, in two imperial octavo volumes, have been forwarded, not only to each State and territorial library in the Union, but also to every incorporated public library, college, normal school, historical society, etc., in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. At the present, the regular shipment of the department reports are being forwarded to the libraries last named. Those connected with these various institutions express themselves as highly delighted with this generosity of the state. Series of these publications are eagerly sought for by libraries, and greatly appreciated by many who never have an opportunity of consulting the published reports of the officers of the government, as it is a fact well known that ninety per cent. of the State documents fall into the hands of those who care little for them, and soon find their way back to the paper mill. Hereafter, there will at least be two hundred of these saved for future reference.

The almost monthly issues of our present Supreme Court Reports have compelled us to limit our shipment to three times a year, the cost of these amounting to almost two-thirds of the annual appropriation for contingent expenses. As other states, except two, make annual shipments, this has been properly appreciated by our libraries of exchange.

Upon examination of the list of purchases, it will be seen that the Librarian has procured a number of volumes of the laws of the State. This was deemed proper in the first place, from the fact that owing to the despoiling of the library, of some years there are only one and two copies. In the second place, a number of the Southern States having requested the laws covering the years of the civil war, in exchange for those of similar period, this purchase was made to favor reciprocity.

In this connection, permit me to recommend, that of the contemplated reprint of the old laws of the Province and State, as also of the reprint of the second series of Pennsylvania Archives, sixty copies of each volume be furnished the State Library for exchange to the states and territories. The State of Massachusetts at present is re-publishing its old laws, and this valuable work is being sent this and other State libraries as they are issued; and it is only fair to reciprocate.

The newspaper files, amounting to over four hundred volumes, have been recently bound and placed in position for speedy reference, while the greater portion of our unbound magazines and reviews are in the hands of the binder. As the files of newspapers and periodicals are referred to daily, the best efforts of the State Printer have been made to place these works upon the library shelves. In this connection, it is desired that the appropriation for newspapers be continued.

The publication in my last report of the list of Provincial and State documents from 1682 to 1889, has been properly appreciated by librarians all over the country. It has shown not only the value of our publications, but also the very many gaps in the library, yet these have been partly filled by exchange and purchase. Efforts should not cease until the series of our own journals, laws and other documents are complete in every particular.

Ascertaining that quite a number of the Supreme Court Reports of the different states and territories were wanting, some of which probably had never been received, owing to the former imperfect system of exchange, most of these have been secured through the courtesy of the secretaries of state or the state librarians. The few remaining I have arranged to purchase, and it is expected that by the first of January next, these valuable reports will be perfectly complete. The frequent demands for these reports away from the Capital, have been denied under the rules passed by the Legislature, and rightly so. Persons from a distance who come to the Library to consult these reports expect to find them upon the shelves. To exemplify the wise course adopted, it may be stated that during the past year, a request was made by several members of the bar in western Pennsylvania for some twenty volumes of State reports to be used in an important trial. This was beyond the power of the Librarian to grant. The following day two attorneys from different portions of the commonwealth came to the library to consult these identical reports, and had they been sent out the gentlemen referred to would have made a fruitless visit. These almost daily demands are unjust, and those making them ought to have a respectful consideration for others. Every facility has been afforded persons visiting the library, and where the necessity required it the hours have not been limited.

Among the recent acquisitions to the library, are many publications which ought to have been secured years ago, and the list of the books appended to this report will show the character, the permanent value, and extent of the additions. The efforts of the Librarian have been to secure the best books in every department of literature and science.

There are many subjects, the reference to which is extremely meagre, and especially is this the case in American and English history, biography and genealogy. Many of the books relating thereto are becoming rare, and some it is impossible to secure, save now and then, when an old bibliophile puts up at auction the gatherings of a lifetime. Owing to the fact that the State Librarian has at no time a reserve fund, he is unable to compete with other librarians who have ample deposits at their command. It would be wise economy, therefore, if a certain sum of money was placed to the credit of the State Librarian, which would not be required to be turned into the State Treasury until the close of the second year, so that, whenever in the opinion of the board of trustees, purchase should be made of books of the character referred to, at public or private sale, this might be accomplished.

Apart from the making the list of our own publications, the initial step has been taken to prepare a subject catalogue of the law portion of the Library; but it is simply impossible with the daily work to be done that the force now there can prepare a catalogue, such an one as would not only be a credit to the State, but of permanent value. A mere list of books is easily compiled, but a catalogue is something which cannot be prepared by any one, neither in a week, month or year. It is folly to say that it is of no use, for it is what every library, however small, feels the actual need of, and the greater the collection of books the more imperative the necessity. A good catalogue is not only a safeguard to the library, but facilitates the labor of the student. Of course, as far as lies in our power, every assistance is rendered the latter; although a properly prepared catalogue would be exceedingly helpful.

Much might be said of the work done in the Library, of the efforts made to perfect our exchanges, and to extend the same to all English-speaking countries, as well to the Central and South American States. The progress of education and free government going on in this section of the continent, admonish us how near these peoples are coming to the hearts of our republic. There is a growing interest in all that relates to them, and their national publications should be secured by us. Through the instrumentality of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington city, these exchanges will shortly be arranged.

The Library has found many friends all over the State and the Union, as the number of books donated show. There are hundreds of pamphlets and small volumes printed privately every year, which can readily be secured to the library by simply the asking. Many of these become valuable in time, and it is a rule adopted that no book presented to the library can be taken out of the room. They are there for permanent preservation, as well for reference.

With this brief statement of the official work, and the suggestions made therewith, I beg leave to acknowledge the uniform courtesy and aid given by your excellency and the other members of the board of trustees.

Respectfully submitted.

WILLIAM H. EGLE,
State Librarian.
